TWENTY-FIFTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 25th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was a Worcester County unit, organized at Camp Lincoln, Worcester, Mass., in the early fall of 1861. It was formed largely under the supervision of A. B. R. Sprague, an officer of the old 3d Battalion Rifles, who became its lieutenant colonel. The men were mustered in on various dates between Sept. 26 and Oct. 12, with Edwin M. Upton of Fitchburg as colonel of the regiment. On Oct. 31 it received its colors from the ladies of the city of Worcester, and left for the seat of war. On Nov. 3 it reached Annapolis, Md., where it was attached to Foster's Brigade, Burnside's Coast Division. It sailed Jan. 9, 1862, as a part of the Burnside expedition to the coast of North Carolina. Landing Feb. 7, on the following day it was engaged in the battle of Roanoke Island, losing 48 men, 8 of whom were killed or mortally wounded. At Newbern, March 14, it was in action with further loss. From this time until May 9 it was on guard and provost duty in Newbern. In April, 1862, when the 9th Corps was organized, the 25th became a part of Amory's (1st) Brigade, Foster's (1st) Division. Leaving Newbern May 9, it went to Red House thirteen miles to the westward and did picket duty until June 1, when it returned to Newbern and camped near Fort Totten. On July 24 it went on an expedition to Trenton, and Sept. 15 on another to Plymouth, and Oct. 30 on still another to Tarboro. It joined the Goldsboro expedition Dec. 10, and was engaged at Whitehall and Goldsboro with little loss.

The regiment now remained in or near Newbern until March 18, 1863, when it was sent to Plymouth, N. C., returning to Newbern May 3. An expedition to Gum Creek, May 21, and another to Washington, July 3, were its chief activities in the mid year of 1863. In December it was sent by transport to Newport News, Va. Here in December and January 432 members of the regiment re-enlisted and returned to Massachusetts on a veteran furlough. Those who did not re-enlist were sent to Williamsburg and were temporarily attached to the 139th N. Y. Regt.

On March 26, 1864, the regiment was reunited at Portsmouth, Va., and was assigned to the Star Brigade — Heckman's (1st) Brigade, 2d Division, 18th Corps. Proceeding to the Bermuda Hundred region the regiment was engaged at Port Walthall Junction, May 6, losing 4 killed and 15 wounded. At Arrowfield Church, May 9, it lost 13 killed and 49 wounded. On May 16 the regiment was outflanked at Drury's Bluff, losing 20 killed, 64 wounded, and about 70 prisoners. Here Gen. Heckman was captured.

Transferred to the north side of the James, the Star Brigade, now commanded by Gen. George H. Stannard, was in the general assault at Cold Harbor, June 3, the 25th Regt. losing 75 killed or mortally wounded, 122 wounded (not mortally), and 32 prisoners, a total of 229 or 76 per cent of the 300 officers and men who reported for duty that morning. Thus the loss of the regiment during a period of less than four weeks was over 460 officers and men, of whom 112 were killed or mortally wounded.

Crossing to the south side of the James, the 25th was engaged on the Petersburg front June 15 and 18 with loss, afterward doing duty in the trenches until August 25, when it was withdrawn to Bermuda Hundred. Ordered again to Newbern, N. C., it embarked Sept. 4, and arrived Sept. 10. In the latter part of the month those who had not re-enlisted were sent home to be mustered out.

The remainder of the regiment, being quartered some distance outside the city, did not suffer greatly from the yellow fever which was then raging at Newbern. It was now reduced to a battalion of four companies, and as such remained in the vicinity of Newbern during the winter of 1864–65. At Wise's Forks near Kinston on March 8, 1865, the 25th was in action for the last time.

On April 9 the remnant of the regiment joined Sherman's army near Goldsboro, moving from there in succession to Raleigh, Greensboro, and Charlotte, from which latter place in July it was ordered to Massachusetts for muster out. Arriving at Readville, Mass., July 13, on the 21st of the month it was mustered out of the service, the muster out rolls being dated July 13, 1865.

TWENTY-SIXTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 26th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was recruited largely by Col. Edward F. Jones, formerly commander of the 6th Regt. 3 Months. The nucleus of the 26th first assembled at Camp Cameron in North Cambridge, and was known as the 6th Regiment, many of its officers and men having served in the old 6th above mentioned. On Sept. 23, 1861, the regiment was transferred to Camp Chase, Lowell, where it completed its organization as the 26th Regiment. The men were mustered in on various dates during September and October. Ordered to report to Gen. Butler, the regiment embarked at Boston, Nov. 19, and on Dec. 3 reached Ship Island in the Gulf of Mexico, where Gen. Butler's forces were being assembled for a movement on New Orleans. Here the regiment remained until the middle of April, 1862, being assigned to Williams' (2d) Division.

During the last of April, after Farragut's fleet had opened the lower Mississippi, the 26th occupied Forts Jackson and St. Philip. Early in July the regiment moved up to the city of New Orleans, where it remained doing guard and provost duty until the beginning of the following summer. During the winter of 1862–63 the 19th Corps was formed, the 26th Regt. becoming a part of the 2d Brigade, 2d Division.

The first combat service of the 26th Regt. was at La Fourche Crossing, sixty miles west of New Orleans, where the Confederates were making a movement toward Brashear City. Here five companies of the 26th were attacked, June 21, 1863, by a force under Gen. Taylor. The assailants were repulsed with severe loss. The 26th lost 5 killed and mortally wounded and 8 wounded, not mortally. Returning to New Orleans on July 15, it remained there until August 28, when it moved to Baton Rouge to join an expedition against Sabine Pass. The expedition was not a success, and by the middle of September the 26th was back at New Orleans. Later in the fall it proceeded again up past La Fourche Crossing, through Brashear City and on to Fort Bisland, at which latter place it rested until Oct. 3. Thence it marched to Opelousas, where it remained until Nov. 1, when it started back, arriving at New Iberia, Nov. 17, where it remained until the close of the year. Early in January, 1864, the regiment moved to Franklin, where, during January and February, 546 men, nearly two thirds of the regiment, re-enlisted for three years. These men were sent home on the 22d of March and were furloughed until the 4th of May, returning to New Orleans, May 20. After several unimportant transfers, on July 10 it embarked for Bermuda Hundred, Va., arriving July 21. Transferred to Tennallytown near Washington, it became a part of Birge's (1st) Brigade, Grover's (2d) Division, Emory's (19th) Corps.

About the middle of August the regiment moved into the Shenandoah Valley, advanced to Berryville the 16th, then retired to Charlestown and to Halltown. Advancing again, on September 19 it was heavily engaged at Winchester, Va., losing 46 in killed and mortally wounded, including Captain Thayer and Major Clark. This was the regiment's heaviest loss in any one action.

After pursuing the enemy to Mount Jackson beyond Harrisonburg, Va., the 26th returned to Cedar Creek. Here just prior to the battle of October 19, the members who had not re-enlisted were sent home for muster out. On the 19th of October the 26th, now reduced to a battalion of five companies, shared in the battle of Cedar Creek, losing 30 officers and men, of whom 4 were killed or mortally wounded.

On October 26, while on duty guarding a forage train, Lieut. McQuestion and 45 men were surprised and captured by Confederate cavalry near Newtown, Va.

The regiment remained in or near Winchester, Va., until May, 1865, when it was sent to Washington and thence to Savannah, Ga., where it arrived June 8. It remained at Savannah until August 26, 1865, when it was mustered out of the service. On September 12 it took transport for Boston, and at Galloup's Island, Boston Harbor, Sept. 18, 1865, it received its final payment and discharge.

TWENTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 27th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was raised in the western counties of Massachusetts by Horace C. Lee of Springfield, who became its colonel. The companies reported at Camp Reed, Springfield, between the 19th and 24th of September, and three quarters of the regiment had been mustered in by September 27. On November 2 the regiment entrained for Annapolis, Md., where it arrived on the 5th. January 9, 1862, as a part of Foster's Brigade, Burnside's Coast Division, it embarked with the Burnside expedition to North Carolina. It was engaged with loss at Roanoke Island, Feb. 8, and with greater loss at Newbern, March 14.

In May, 1862, Burnside's force was organized into three divisions, the 27th becoming a part of Stevenson's (2d) Brigade, Foster's (1st) Division. Expeditions or reconnaissances were made to Batchelder's Creek, Trenton, Washington, and almost to Tarboro during the summer and fall. Plymouth was visited Nov. 10, and on Dec. 3, the regiment returned to Newbern. From Dec. 11 to Dec. 21, the 27th was on the Goldsboro expedition, but suffered only slight loss. The winter was without event of importance after the return from Goldsboro.

From March 30, 1863, to April 16, eight companies were shut up in Washington, N. C., which was then besieged by Gen. D. H. Hill. The siege being raised, they returned to Newbern, April 25. Two days later they were sent to Core Creek on the Gum Swamp expedition, again returning to Newbern where the regiment stayed most of the time until October.

On October 17, the regiment embarked under orders to proceed to Newport News, Va., arriving on the evening of the 18th. Here it became a part of Heckman's Star Brigade, 2d Division, 18th Corps, Army of the James. During the early winter of 1863–64, 220 members of the regiment re-enlisted and on Jany. 15 went home on a veteran furlough, remaining until Feb. 19. During the winter months 213 recruits joined the regiment, so that it entered the spring campaign with 933 officers and men.

After fruitless expeditions to Yorktown and Williamsburg in May, 1864, the regiment returned to Fort Monroe and embarked May 5 for Bermuda Hundred. It was engaged at Port Walthall Junction, May 6 and 7, losing 22 men, 5 of whom were killed or mortally wounded, also at Arrowfield Church, May 9, with a loss of 38, of whom 10 were killed or mortally wounded. At Drury's Bluff, May 16, in the dense fog of early morning the regiment was outflanked and lost over 300 officers and men, 17 of whom were killed or mortally wounded and 259 taken prisoners, many of them dying in Andersonville. In this action Gen. Heckman, their brigade commander, was captured. Transferred to the north side of the James, the regiment was engaged at Cold Harbor, June 2 and 3, losing 104, of whom 30 were killed or mortally wounded. In the four weeks ending June 3 the regiment suffered 488 casualties, 62 being officers and men killed or mortally wounded.

The 27th now recrossed to the Petersburg front, being in action June 15, on the very day of its arrival, and again on the 18th, when it lost 11 killed and 28 wounded.

August 25 it was withdrawn to the Bermuda Hundred region. In September 179 men whose term of service had expired were sent home to Massachusetts. The rest of the regiment was transferred to North Carolina, where it had seen its first service. After various experiences at Carolina City, Williamston, Newbern, and elsewhere, early in March, 1865, the regiment proceeded to Southwest Creek near Kinston, where it was surrounded by the Confederates March 8, losing 7 killed, 40 wounded, and the rest of the regiment numbering over 200 taken prisoners. The prisoners were taken to Libby Prison in Richmond, Va., and soon paroled and sent home. A fragment of the regiment still performed guard duty at Newbern until June 26, 1865, when it was mustered out and sent home. The survivors reached Readville, Mass., July 7, and on the 19th were paid off and discharged.

Of the members of this regiment who were taken prisoners, mostly at Drury's Bluff and Southwest Creek, 142 died in Confederate prisons.

TWENTY-EIGHTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 28th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was composed mostly of men of Irish birth or parentage. It went into camp at Camp Cameron, North Cambridge, Sept. 22, 1861, and most of the men were mustered into the service Dec. 13. William Monteith of New York was its first colonel. From Jany. 11, 1862, until Feb. 14, it was stationed at Fort Columbus, New York Harbor. Here it embarked for Hilton Head, S. C., where it arrived Feb. 23. Here it was attached to Gen. T. W. Sherman's force which was operating against Fort Pulaski, Ga. It was posted on several islands near the mouth of the Savannah River until June 1, when it was sent to James Island near Charleston, S. C., where it became a part of the 1st Brigade of Gen. I. I. Stevens' Division. At James Island, S. C., June 16, eight companies were engaged, losing 70 men, of whom 20 were killed or mortally wounded. Col. Monteith having left the regiment it was now commanded by Maj. Cartwright.

On July 6, the regiment returned to Hilton Head, S. C., from whence it was sent to Fort Monroe, arriving July 18. Gen. Stevens' command was now made the 1st Division of the 9th Corps. Early in August the regiment proceeded via Fredericksburg to Culpeper, Va., joining Gen. Pope's army near Raccoon Ford on the Rapidan, Aug. 16. At 2d Bull Run, Aug. 29, the 28th was heavily engaged near the railroad embankment, losing 135 men, of whom 26 were killed or mortally wounded. Here Major Cartwright was disabled. At Chantilly, Sept. 1, it sustained a further loss of 99 men, of whom 21 were killed or mortally wounded. Here Gen. I. I. Stevens was killed. The 28th was slightly engaged at South Mountain, Sept. 14, and heavily engaged at Antietam, Sept. 17, here losing 48, of whom 26 were killed or mortally wounded. In these actions it formed a part of Christ's Brigade, Wilcox's Division. Gen. Reno having been killed at South Mountain, at Antietam Gen. Cox commanded the corps.

In October Lieut. Richard Byrnes, of the 5th U. S. Cav., was detached from that regiment and made colonel of the 28th. The middle of November found the regiment at Falmouth where on the 23d it was transferred to Meagher's Irish Brigade — the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 2d Corps. In the assaults on Marye's Heights at Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862, the regiment lost 110, of whom 36 were killed or mortally wounded. The winter was spent in the vicinity of Falmouth.

At Chancellorsville, May 3, 1863, the 28th was present with slight loss. At Gettysburg, July 2, it was heavily engaged in the region of Devil's Den, losing 101, of whom 15 were fatally wounded. Here it formed a part of Kelly's (1st) Brigade, Caldwell's (1st) Division, Hancock's (2d) Corps. During the fall the regiment was engaged in the region of the Rappahannock, being present at Bristoe Station, Oct. 14, without loss. During the last of November it participated in the Mine Run Campaign. While at Stevensburg in the winter of 1863–64 enough men re-enlisted so that in the spring of 1864 the regiment numbered 505 officers and men.

As a part of Smyth's Brigade, Barlow's Division, Hancock's (2d) Corps it was in action at the Wilderness May 6 and 7, losing 97 officers and men, including Captains Mc-

Intyre and Smith, both of these officers and 24 enlisted men being killed or mortally wounded. At Po River, May 10, the Bloody Angle, May 12, and in the general assault May 18 at Spottsylvania, the regiment lost 125, of whom 30, including Major Lawler, Captain Wagner, and Captain Cochrane, lost their lives. At Cold Harbor, June 3, the regiment suffered a further loss of 57, of whom 12 were killed or mortally wounded.

Transferred to the Petersburg front, on June 16 the regiment was heavily engaged with loss. Transferred to Gen. Miles' Brigade, it fought at Jerusalem Plank Road, June 22, at Darbytown Road, July 27, at Charles City Cross Roads, Aug. 16, and at Reams' Station, Aug. 25, suffering severely in all these actions.

On March 25, 1865, near Hatcher's Run, and on April 2, at Sutherland Station it fought its last battles. It was in the pursuit of Lee toward Appomattox, and after the surrender returned to Washington. Here on June 30 it was mustered out of the service. Reaching Readville, Mass., July 5, a few days later the men were paid off and discharged.

TWENTY-NINTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 29th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. had for its nucleus seven companies of the 3d and 4th Regt's. M. V. M., "Minute Men." These seven companies were sent to Fort Monroe in the middle of May, 1861, having enlisted for three years. Until July, when the 3d and 4th Regt's. were mustered out, they served with these regiments. From that time until December they constituted a battalion. Near the close of the year three new companies were added, and the organization of the 29th Regiment was completed, Ebenezer W. Pierce of Freetown being commissioned colonel. Companies "A" and "K" had been engaged with loss at Big Bethel, June 10, 1861, while attached to the 4th Regiment. The regiment spent the winter of 1861–62 at Newport News, Va., where March 8, it witnessed the destruction of the CUMBERLAND and CONGRESS, and on the following day saw the MONITOR and MERRIMAC fight.

May 9, 1862, the 29th proceeded to Fort Monroe and thence to Norfolk. Transferred to Fair Oaks on June 9, it was here attached to Meagher's Irish Brigade, Richardson's Division, Sumner's (2d) Corps. It was engaged near Fair Oaks, June 15, at Gaines' Mill, June 27, at Savage's Station, June 29, at Nelson's Farm, June 30, and at Malvern Hill, July 1, without heavy loss. Withdrawn to the vicinity of Washington, Aug. 29, it assisted in covering the retreat of Pope's army from 2d Bull Run, then joined in the advance of the Army of the Potomac into Maryland. It arrived at South Mountain after the battle of Sept. 14, but at Antietam, Sept. 17, it was heavily engaged near the Bloody Lane with loss. On Nov. 30, the 29th was transferred to Christ's Brigade, Burns' Division, Wilcox's (9th) Corps, and was present at Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862, with slight loss. The midwinter season was spent near Falmouth.

February 12, 1863, the 29th started for Newport News, arriving on the 14th. Gen. Parke now took command of the 9th Corps, and Gen. Wilcox resumed command of the 1st Division. The corps was now transferred by boat and rail to Cincinnati, Ohio, arriving March 26. After various expeditions after guerrillas the 29th moved in June to the front of Vicksburg and remained there until after the surrender, July 4. It then shared in the pursuit of Gen. Johnston to Jackson, Miss., and was present at the capture of that city. Returning to Cincinnati, Aug. 20, it proceeded over the mountains to Knoxville, Tenn., being present at the battle of Campbell's Station, Nov. 16, and participated in the defense of Fort Sanders, Nov. 29. After the raising of the siege by the Confederates the 29th spent the last days of December at Blain's Cross Roads where a larger percentage of the men of the regiment re-enlisted, and on Jany. 1, 1864, were re-mustered for three years. Those not re-enlisting were transferred to the 36th Regt. The re-enlisted men were given veteran furloughs, returning to Massachusetts April 9, and reporting again at Washington, D. C., May 18. The regiment was now temporarily assigned to the 5th Corps, but was soon transferred to the 2d Brig., 1st Div., 9th Corps.

Moving to the front of Petersburg it was in the assault of June 17, 1864, losing three color bearers and 26 other officers and men. Transferred to Bartlett's (1st) Brigade, on July 30 it participated in the Crater fight where it again lost heavily. During the winter of 1864–65 the regiment was stationed near Fort Stedman, most of the time in Battery 11. Here on March 25, 1865, it was engaged in the defense of the lines at this point when Fort Stedman was attacked and temporarily in the hands of the enemy.

After the fall of Petersburg and Richmond and the surrender of the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, the regiment was brought back to Tennallytown near Washington, arriving June 9. Here it received a large number of recruits and re-enlisted men from the 35th Mass. Regt., and on July 29, was mustered out of the service. Returning to Readville, Mass., on Aug. 11, 1865, the men were paid off and discharged.

THIRTIETH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 30th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was raised by Gen. Butler in the fall of 1861 and the early part of the winter following. It was originally known as the Eastern Bay State Regiment. It was organized at Camp Chase, Lowell, and its members were mustered in on various dates from Sept. 15 to the close of the year. A controversy having arisen between Governor Andrew and Gen. Butler over the latter's authority to raise troops in Massachusetts, the regiment left the State Jany. 13, 1862, under command of Acting Lieut. Col. French. Remaining at Fort Monroe until Feb. 2, on the 12th it reached Ship Island in the Gulf of Mexico, where Gen. Butler was assembling his forces to operate against New Orleans. Nathan A. M. Dudley was commissioned colonel, Feb. 8, and most of the other field and staff and line officers were commissioned Feb. 20. It was now officially the 30th Regiment.

After the Mississippi was opened by Farragut's fleet in the latter part of April, 1862, the 30th was sent to New Orleans and thence to Baton Rouge, arriving June 2. It made several expeditions into the country in pursuit of guerrillas, then was sent to the front of Vicksburg but returned to Baton Rouge, July 26. It was now in the 2d Brigade commanded by Gen. Thomas Williams. It participated with loss in the battle of Baton Rouge, Aug. 5, 1862. During most of the remainder of the year it was posted at Carrollton near New Orleans.

In the middle of January, 1863, it was again transferred to Baton Rouge, where it became a part of Dudley's (3d) Brigade, Grover's (1st) Division, Banks' (19th) Corps. It was in action at Plains Store May 21, then took active part in the siege of Port Hudson, twice furnishing volunteers for storming parties. During the last part of the siege it was on picket at Plains Store.

After the fall of Port Hudson July 9, the 30th marched through the town, then took boat for Donaldsonville. At Kock's Plantation or Bayou La Fourche, July 13, 1863, the regiment was engaged with severe loss. August was spent at Baton Rouge. In September the regiment was in the expedition to Sabine Pass, and later moved from Algiers to Brashear City, Camp Bisland, New Iberia, Vermillionville, Opelousas, and beyond. This was known as the Teche region. Leaving Opelousas Nov. 1, the regiment fell back to New Iberia, where it went into winter quarters on the 9th. Here it remained until Jany. 7, 1864, in the meantime 357 members of the regiment having re-enlisted. From Jany. 9 to Feb. 18 it was at Franklin. Feb. 19 it reached Algiers, and March 5 the re-enlisted men left for Massachusetts on veteran furloughs. These men returned to New Orleans May 16.

From June 12 to July 3 the regiment was on an expedition up the Mississippi to Morganzia. Returning to New Orleans July 3, it embarked at once for Fort Monroe, Va., arriving July 12, and being immediately hurried to Washington City, which was menaced by a Confederate army under Gen. Early. Gen. Early having been repulsed July 12, the 30th joined in the pursuit, proceeding through Leesburg and Snicker's Gap to Berryville. Returning to Washington, it now marched through Maryland to Harper's Ferry. Near this place it joined Gen. Sheridan's Army of the Shenandoah. It participated in the battle of Winchester Sept. 19, and that of Fisher's Hill, Sept. 22, suffering little loss. It joined in the pursuit of the Confederates as far as Harrisonburg. It was engaged at Cedar Creek Oct. 19, losing 127 men, its largest loss in any one action. Soon after this battle the regiment received 178 recruits. A little later it took position about six miles south of Winchester. On Dec. 30 it was sent to guard the crossings of the Opequan east of Winchester, where it remained until April 1. On the 21st it entrained for Washington, where it remained until June 1, when it was sent to Savannah, Ga. During the remainder of the year 1865 it was posted at Georgetown, Florence, Sumpter, and other places in South Carolina doing provost duty. This work continued until the middle of the year 1866, when on July 5 the regiment was mustered out at Charleston, S. C., the last Massachusetts regiment to leave the service.

THIRTY-FIRST REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 31st Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was raised by Gen. Butler in the fall of 1861 and early part of the winter following. It was first known as the Western Bay State Regiment. It was organized at Camp Seward, Pittsfield, and its members were mustered into service mostly during November and December. A contention having arisen between Governor Andrew and Gen. Butler over the latter's authority to raise troops in Massachusetts, the 31st was at first in charge of Acting Lieut. Col. Charles M. Whelden of Pittsfield. About Feb. 1, 1862, the regiment was transferred to Camp Chase, Lowell, and on the 20th it embarked for the seat of war. After delays at Fort Monroe and Port Royal, on March 23 it reached Ship Island in the Gulf of Mexico. The questions in dispute between Governor Andrew and Gen. Butler having been settled, Oliver P. Gooding, formerly first lieutenant in the 10th U. S. Inf., was commissioned colonel to date from Feb. 8, and most of the other field and staff and line officers were commissioned to date from Feb. 20. The regiment was now officially known as the 31st Mass., and was assigned to Gen. Thomas Williams' (2d) Brigade.

After the fall of Forts Jackson and St. Philip it was sent to New Orleans where it was the first regiment to land. During the summer and fall it did guard and provost duty at New Orleans and the forts. With the organization of the 19th Corps in January, 1863, seven companies of the 31st became a part of the 3d Brigade, 3d Division, the three other companies being stationed at Fort Pike. The main body of the regiment now joined the forces at Baton Rouge and in the middle of March coöperated with the fleet in its passage of the batteries at Port Hudson.

It now proceeded to Algiers and joined the Teche expedition, Col. Gooding being in command of the brigade. It was engaged with loss at Fort Bisland, April 13, then advanced through Opelousas to Alexandria on the Red River. Returning thence via Simsport and Bayou Sara to Port Hudson it was present during the siege, losing 64 men mostly in the assault of the 14th of June, 18 being killed or mortally wounded.

After the formal surrender, July 9, it accompanied Gen. Weitzel's expedition to Donaldsonville, returning to Baton Rouge, Sept. 2. On the 9th it was rejoined by the three companies from Fort Pike, and now became a part of the 2d Brigade, 1st Division.

In December, 1863, the 31st was armed and equipped as cavalry and stationed at Carrollton, being commonly known as the 6th Mass. Cav. During the winter 330 men re-enlisted and were re-mustered Feb. 23. The regiment now formed a part of the 4th Cavalry Brigade under Col. N. A. M. Dudley.

Feb. 9, 1864, it crossed the Mississippi to Algiers and proceeded up the Mississippi to Donaldsonville, thence via La Fourche Bayou to Thibodeau. Turning west and northwest it followed its old route of April and May, 1862, through Opelousas to Alexandria on the Red River, reaching the latter place March 20. Advancing from here up the Red River toward Shreveport, on April 8 it met the enemy at Sabine Cross Roads above Natchitoches, where the main Union force was defeated, the 31st losing 62, of whom 11 were killed or mortally wounded. Retreating southward it was engaged with loss at Cane River, Hudnot's Plantation, Moore's Plantation, and elsewhere in the neighborhood of Alexandria. Diverging toward Simsport it was engaged at Yellow Bayou just north of that city May 18, losing 32 men of whom nearly half were killed or mortally wounded. Arriving at Simsport on the 19th, three days later the regiment reached Morganzia on the Mississippi. On July 3 the regiment returned to Algiers, the re-enlisted men proceeding thence to Cairo and homeward to Massachusetts on veteran furloughs, starting from Algiers July 21, and returning September 19. Before leaving for home they turned in their horses, but on their return they were again equipped as cavalry. They were then stationed opposite Donaldsonville to keep down the guerrilla bands, and were later engaged in the operations against Mobile, Ala., occupying that city after its surrender until the close of the regiment's service.

It was mustered out Sept. 9, 1865, transported to New Orleans, and from there sent to Massachusetts. Boston Harbor was reached Sept. 24, and on the 30th the regiment, since February only a battalion of five companies, was paid off and discharged.

THIRTY-SECOND REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

THREE YEARS

The 32d Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was the outgrowth of the First Battalion, Massachusetts Infantry which was organized in November, 1861, to garrison Fort Warren, Boston Harbor. Major Francis J. Parker, commander of the battalion, became the first colonel of the regiment. The members of the original battalion, Co.'s A, B, C, D, and E, were mustered in mostly in November and December, 1861, those of Co. F in February, 1862, and those of the other companies during the following summer.

The first six companies left for the seat of war May 26, 1862. They were encamped near Washington City until June 30, and were here given a regimental status. Taking boat for Fort Monroe on the above date, they arrived July 2. Proceeding at once to Harrison's Landing the regiment was assigned to Griffin's Brigade, Morell's Division, Porter's (5th) Corps, Army of the Potomac. During the six weeks of its stay here the regiment suffered much from malarial diseases. Aug. 15 it started to join Pope's army near Culpepper, proceeding via Yorktown, Aquia Creek, and Stafford Court House to Barnett's Ford on the Rappahannock. Though within hearing of the second battle of Bull Run, Aug. 29 and 30, it was not engaged. Retiring with the army to the outskirts of Washington, it was encamped at Miner's Hill where it received the remaining companies of the regiment.

It participated in the Maryland campaign of September, 1862, but was not engaged either at South Mountain or Antietam. After the Confederate army had recrossed into Virginia and Gen. Burnside had succeeded Gen. McClellan in command of the Army of the Potomac, the 32d regiment went into winter quarters at Stoneman's Switch near Potomac Creek. On Dec. 13, 1862, it participated in the assaults on Marye's Heights at Fredericksburg, losing 35 officers and men, of whom 6 were killed or mortally wounded. It then returned to its old camp at Stoneman's Switch.

At Chancellorsville early in May, 1863, the 32d was present but little engaged. At Gettysburg, July 2, 1863, the regiment was heavily engaged while supporting the 3d Corps in the Devil's Den region. Here out of 227 men taken into action the 32d lost 81, of whom 22 were killed or mortally wounded.

The regiment was engaged in the autumn campaign in the region of the Rappahannock, in the latter part of September receiving 180 recruits, mostly drafted men. After the Mine Run campaign the regiment went into winter quarters at the hamlet of Liberty near Bealton on the Orange and Alexandria railroad. Here during the early part of the winter most of the members of the regiment re-enlisted and were sent to Massachusetts on veteran furlough remaining from Jany. 17 to Feb. 17.

With the opening of the spring campaign of 1864, Gen. Sweitzer commanding the brigade and Gen. Griffin the division, the 5th Corps under Gen. Warren opened the battle of the Wilderness on the Orange pike, May 5. Here the 32d suffered slight loss. Moving to Spottsylvania May 8, on the 12th the regiment was heavily engaged near Laurel Hill, losing 103 men including five color bearers, 46 being killed or mortally wounded. It was present at North Anna River, May 23, at Shady Grove Road, May 30, and at Bethesda Church near Cold Harbor, June 3, losing in the last two engagements named 52 men of whom 23 were killed or mortally wounded. On June 10 it received 170 re-enlisted men and recruits from the 9th Mass. Regt., and at other times detachments from the 12th, 13th, 18th, 22d, and 39th Mass. Regts. These were largely consolidated into two extra companies, L and M. of the 32d.

Before Petersburg it was in the assault of June 18, meeting with severe loss including Colonel Prescott, mortally wounded. At Jerusalem Road, June 22, Weldon R. R., Aug. 21, and Poplar Spring Church, Sept. 30, it was engaged with loss. The winter was spent in the trenches before Petersburg. On Feb. 5 it was engaged with loss at Hatcher's Run, on March 31 at Dinwiddie Court House, and on April 1 at Five Forks. It was among the troops that overtook Lee at Appomattox, and was one of the regiments detailed to accept the arms and colors at the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, April 9, 1865. Transferred to Washington, it was mustered out June 28, the men receiving their final discharges and payment at Galloup's Island, Boston Harbor, July 11.

THIRTY-THIRD REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

The 33d Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was organized at Camp Edwin M. Stanton, Lynnfield, in June and July, 1862. It was at first a twelve company regiment, and early in August was mustered into the service as such with Alberto C. Maggi as its colonel. On August 14 the regiment left Camp Stanton for the seat of war numbering 1200 men. Companies L and M remained with the regiment until November when they were transferred to the 41st Regt. as Co's. I and K.

By boat and rail the 33d proceeded to Washington, arriving Aug. 17. Next day the regiment established its camp at Hunter's Chapel on the Virginia side of the Potomac. During the latter part of the month it did patrol duty at Alexandria, and on October 10 was sent to Fairfax C. H. where it was attached to Smith's (2d) Brigade, Von Steinwehr's (2d) Division, Sigel's Corps which later became the 11th. After movements to Thoroughfare Gap and White Plains in November, the regiment went into winter quarters near Falmouth just after the battle of Fredericksburg.

About April 1, 1863, Col. Underwood succeeded Col. Maggi in command of the regiment. In May, as a part of Barlow's Brigade, Von Steinwehr's Division, Howard's (11th) Corps it was present at Chancellorsville with only small loss. At Gettysburg, July 1 to 4, 1863, the 33d was posted on East Cemetery Hill and later between that and Culp's Hill. From this latter position it helped to repel the attack of the brigades of Hays and Hoke just at dusk on the 2d of July. In this action the regiment lost 8 killed and 38 wounded. After this battle the 33d was encamped for nearly two months in the vicinity of Catlett's and Bristoe Stations on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. Here it received orders to proceed to the west, and on the last day of September it detrained at Bridgeport, Tenn. Both the 11th and 12th Corps had been ordered to Tennessee to coöperate with the Army of the Cumberland.

At Wauhatchie, Oct. 29, 1863, in a very severe engagement the 33d lost 35 killed, 58 wounded, and one missing. After the battles of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge the regiment went into winter quarters in Lookout Valley.

In April, 1864, the 11th and 12th Corps were consolidated to form the 20th Corps commanded by Gen. Joseph Hooker and later by Gen. J. A. Mower. As a part of the 3d Brigade, 3d Division, 20th Corps, Army of Georgia, the 33d started on its famous Atlanta campaign early in May, 1864.

At Resaca, May 15, it was heavily engaged, losing 82 men, of whom 23 were killed or mortally wounded. At Dallas, May 25, it was in action, losing 13 killed and 35 wounded, and again at Kenesaw Mountain, June 22, losing 8 killed and 18 wounded. The regiment participated in the siege of Atlanta, the occupation of the city, the March to the Sea, the operations around Savannah, and in the northward march through Georgia and the Carolinas. Averysboro, N. C., fought March 16, 1865, and Bentonville, fought March 19, were the last battles of the regiment. When Johnston's army surrendered, April 26, the 33d Regiment was doing guard duty at Raleigh, N. C.

It then marched back through Petersburg, Richmond, and Spottsylvania C. H. to its old Chancellorsville field, thence onward to Fairfax C. H. and the outskirts of Washington City. Here on the 24th of May it participated in the Grand Review of Sherman's army.

On June 10 the regiment was mustered out of the United States service. Returning to Readville, Mass., the members of the regiment were furloughed until July 2, when they were assembled for the last time and paid off and discharged.

THIRTY-FOURTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

THREE YEARS

The 34th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was organized at Camp John E. Wool, Worcester, in the midsummer of 1862, and was composed of companies recruited in the five western counties of Massachusetts. The men were mustered in on various dates but largely on July 31. George D. Wells of Boston, lieutenant colonel of the 1st Mass. Regt., was made colonel. On Aug. 15 the regiment left Camp Wool for the seat of war, reaching Hunter's Chapel near Arlington, Va. on the 18th. Aug. 22 it proceeded to Alexandria and thence to Cloud's Mills. At Fort Ellsworth, Fort Lyon, and Upton's Hill the fall and winter and spring following were spent, the regiment having been twice temporarily brigaded with other regiments. Not until July 9, 1863, was it ordered away from the defenses of Washington.

On the above date it was sent to Harper's Ferry, where it occupied a position near Fort Duncan as a part of Gen. Negley's Brigade. On July 15 it crossed the Potomac, took possession of Harper's Ferry, and established itself on Camp Hill. Here Gen. Lockwood took command of the brigade. He was succeeded by Col. Wells October 15. This was then known as the 1st Brigade, 1st Division, Army of Observation.

October 18 the 34th met the enemy at Ripon with slight loss. In mid-December, 1863, it led an expedition up the Shenandoah as far as Harrisonburg, returning to Harper's Ferry the 24th. On Feb. 1 it was sent by train to Cumberland, Md., returning a week later. It now remained at Harper's Ferry and vicinity until March 8, when it was ordered to Martinsburg where it remained about four weeks.

Attached to Sigel's command, as a part of Thoburn's Brigade, Sullivan's Division, Department of the Shenandoah, it proceeded to New Market, where it was engaged May 15, 1864, losing 221 officers and men, of whom 39 were killed or mortally wounded. In June, Gen. Hunter having succeeded Gen. Sigel in command of the department, the regiment participated in the Lynchburg expedition, being engaged at Piedmont, June 5, with a loss of 110, of whom 22 were killed or mortally wounded. Reaching the outskirts of Lynchburg the 17th, on the following day it lost 5 killed and 40 wounded. Then followed the retreat across the mountains of West Virginia to Gauley River, thence on to Point Pleasant on the Ohio River, from which point it proceeded back to Martinsburg and thence to its old camping ground at Harper's Ferry. Again crossing the Potomac it proceeded to Knoxville, thence to Berlin, where it recrossed, then marched to Snicker's Gap, where it was engaged July 18, with a loss of 4 killed and 11 wounded.

The succeeding seven weeks were spent in marching and countermarching from Williamsport to Frederick, Md., and as far up the Shenandoah as Middletown near Cedar Creek.

On Aug. 7, 1864, Gen. Sheridan took command in the Valley. The 34th was now a part of Wells' (1st) Brigade, Thoburn's (1st) Division, Crook's (8th) Corps, Army of the Shenandoah, and as such participated in Sheridan's Valley campaign.

At Opequan (Winchester), Sept. 19, it lost 7 killed and 97 wounded, several mortally. At Fisher's Hill, Sept. 22, it was engaged with slight loss. At Stickley's Farm, near Cedar Creek, Oct. 13, it lost its colonel, Wells, now commanding the brigade, and 9 men killed, 48 wounded, and 40 missing. At Cedar Creek, Oct. 19, it lost 9 wounded (two mortally) and 32 missing.

Gen. Thoburn having been killed at Cedar Creek, his division, now commanded by Gen. Turner, was sent to the Army of the James and attached to the 24th Corps, commanded by Gen. John Gibbon. Lieut. Col. Andrew Potter of the 34th now commanded the brigade. After a winter spent in front of Petersburg, the regiment was engaged at Hatcher's Run, March 31, at Fort Gregg near Petersburg, with heavy loss, April 2, then joined in the pursuit and capture of the Army of Northern Virginia. After a short stay in Lynchburg it returned to Richmond, where June 15 it was mustered out and sent home. Assembling for the last time at Readville, Mass., July 6, the members of the regiment were paid off and discharged.

THIRTY-FIFTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 35th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was organized at Camp Stanton, Lynnfield, and was composed mostly of men enrolled in eastern Massachusetts. It was recruited during July and the early part of August, 1862, and its members were mustered into the service largely between August 9 and 19. Under Col. Edward A. Wild the regiment left for the seat of war August 22, reaching Washington on the 24th. On Sept. 8, it was assigned to Ferrero's (2d) Brigade, Sturgis' (2d) Division, Reno's (9th) Corps.

Joining the Army of the Potomac it took part in the battle of South Mountain, Sept. 14, 1862, where Col. Wild lost his left arm. At Antietam, Sept. 17, under command of Lieut. Col. Carruth, the regiment lost 214 officers and men, of whom 69 were killed or mortally wounded. At Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862, it again suffered severely, losing Major Willard, who was in command. It camped during the early part of the winter near Falmouth.

On Feb. 9, 1863, it was transferred to Newport News, Va., and, after a few weeks stay at this place, was sent with the 9th Corps into Kentucky, being stationed at Mount Stirling, Lancaster, Stanford, and other places. Lieut. Col. Carruth now became colonel of the regiment. It was next ordered to Vicksburg, Miss., to reinforce Gen. Grant, remaining about four weeks, until the surrender of the city, July 4. It participated in the pursuit of Johnston's army to Jackson, Miss., and was present at the capture of the city, then returned to its old camp near Vicksburg. From here it proceeded by boat and train to Cincinnati, reaching there the 14th of August.

Proceeding to Knoxville, Tenn., which it reached Oct. 22, it participated in the defense of the city against Longstreet. After the close of the siege, Dec. 4, the 35th soon proceeded to Blain's Cross Roads, where it remained, enduring great privations, until January, 1864. After various movements — to Knoxville, Morristown, and elsewhere — the regiment returned to Cincinnati. Here, April 1, it entrained for Baltimore, Md., from whence it took boat for Annapolis.

In the reorganization of the 9th Corps the regiment, now commanded by Major Nat Wales, became a part of Carruth's (1st) Brigade, Stevenson's (1st) Division. During the battle of the Wilderness, May 5 and 6, and the first part of that of Spottsylvania, May 8 to 12, the 35th was in charge of the supply train of the 1st Division, and was not engaged. Returning to its brigade, May 17, on the following day it was in the last assault on the Confederate lines at Spottsylvania, moving thence to the North Anna River, where it was again engaged, May 25.

It was now detailed as an engineer corps for the 1st Division. At Cold Harbor, June 3, it was posted near Bethesda Church and suffereds light loss. Crossing the James on June 15, the regiment participated in the siege of Petersburg. At the Crater fight, July 30, it was heavily engaged, losing 12 killed and 34 wounded. At Weldon Railroad, Aug. 19, it was again engaged with loss. It was now reduced to two officers and about 100 men present for duty.

In another reorganization of the 9th Corps early in September it was assigned to Curtin's (1st) Brigade, Potter's (2d) Division. About this time there were added to the regiment 385 German and French substitutes, recently arrived in this country and ignorant of the English tongue. Major Hudson now commanded the regiment. At Poplar Spring Church, Sept. 30, it was severely engaged, losing 163 prisoners. For two months it was now posted near Forts Fisher and Welsh. During the midwinter it was stationed in the rear of Fort Sedgwick (Fort Hell). From March 7, 1865, until the fall of Petersburg, April 2, it formed a part of the garrison of this fort. It then joined in the pursuit of Lee's army and was at Farmville when the news came of the surrender.

Arriving at Alexandria, Va., April 28, it remained as a part of the garrison of the District of Columbia until June 9, when it transferred its recruits to the 29th Regiment and was mustered out of the service. Returning to Readville, Mass., on June 27, the men were paid off and discharged.

THIRTY-SIXTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

THREE YEARS

The 36th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was composed of eight companies from Worcester County, one from Hampden, and one from Suffolk. The first recruits to arrive at Camp John E. Wool, Worcester, the place of rendezvous, came from Fitchburg under Capt. T. L. Barker, and reported August 1. By the 27th of the month practically all the regiment had arrived and the muster in was completed on that day, Henry Bowman, formerly a captain in the 15th Regt., being commissioned colonel.

On Sept. 2, the regiment left Worcester for the seat of war. Proceeding by boat to Alexandria, Va., it reached that place Sept. 6. Ordered at once to join the Army of the Potomac, it reached Sharpsburg, Md., the day after the battle of Antietam, and was attached to Welsh's (3d) Brigade, Willcox's (1st) Division, 9th Corps.

After various movements in Maryland and northwestern Virginia it reached a position opposite Fredericksburg, Va., November 19. It was present at the battle of Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, with little loss. The early part of the winter was spent at Falmouth.

On Feb. 10, 1863, the regiment started for Newport News. Here it remained six weeks, when it was sent with the 9th Corps into Kentucky, arriving at Covington, March 28. After being stationed at various places in Kentucky, early in June it was ordered to the Vicksburg front to reinforce Gen. Grant. It was stationed at Snyder's Bluff on the Yazoo River until Vicksburg surrendered, July 4, then participated in the pursuit of Johnston to Jackson, Miss., being present at the capture of that city. Returning to its old camp near Vicksburg, on the 4th of August it started again for Kentucky, passing through Covington and on to Nicholasville, where it arrived on the 18th.

After various movements the 36th was sent to join Burnside in East Tennessee. Reaching Knoxville Oct. 3, it proceeded to Bull's Gap on the railroad 60 miles to the northeast, engaging the enemy at Blue Springs on the 10th with slight loss. Returning to Knoxville the 14th, it proceeded 30 miles southwest to Loudon. Retiring again toward Knoxville, it was attacked at Campbell's Station, Nov. 16, by Longstreet's advance and suffered some loss. It participated in the defense of Knoxville, Nov. 17 to Dec. 4, and soon after the siege was raised went into winter quarters at Blain's Cross Roads. Here the men suffered much from want of proper supplies and clothing.

Breaking camp the last of January, after much marching and countermarching the regiment reached Nicholasville, April 1, where it took train for Baltimore, Md., and proceeded thence by boat to Annapolis. Here the 9th Corps was reorganized, the 36th becoming a part of the 1st Brigade, 2d Division. Major Draper now commanded the regiment, which had been strengthened by detachments of 100 men from the 29th Mass. Regt. and 56 from the 46th N. Y. Regt. At the Wilderness, May 6, it lost 85 men, of whom 23 were killed or mortally wounded. At Spottsylvania, May 12, it lost 107, of whom 25 were killed or mortally wounded. At North Anna the loss of the regiment was slight. At Bethesda Church near Cold Harbor, June 3, it lost 17 killed and 33 wounded. Crossing the James to the front of Petersburg and carrying into action but 90 men, in the assaults of June 17 and 18 it lost 10 killed and 18 wounded.

After ten weeks before Petersburg, during which time it lost heavily from sharp shooting by the enemy, it was engaged with loss at Poplar Spring Church, Sept. 30. It then performed trench and garrison duty in or near Fort Rice through the remainder of the fall and winter. On November 1 it was reduced to 7 companies by consolidation, but received at the same time the three companies of the 21st Mass. Battln., thus preserving an organization of ten companies. In April, 1865, it joined in the pursuit of Lee's retreating army as far as Farmville. Returning to Alexandria, Va., after the surrender, it went into camp near Fort Lyon. On June 8, its recruits and re-enlisted men having been transferred to the 56th Regt., the 36th was mustered out of the service. Returning to Massachusetts, on June 19, it was assembled at Readville for the last time and paid off and discharged.

THIRTY-SEVENTH REGIMENT MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Three Years

The 37th Regt. Mass. Vol. Inf. was composed largely of men from the four western counties of Massachusetts and was organized at Camp Briggs, in August and early September, 1862. Major Oliver Edwards, commander of the camp, was commissioned colonel Aug. 27, and between Aug. 30 and Sept. 4 the companies were mustered into the United States service. On Sept. 7 the regiment left for Washington arriving on the 9th. Here it was assigned to Briggs' Brigade of Casey's Division of Reserves and was stationed at Camp Chase on Arlington Heights.

Transferred to Frederick, Md., Sept. 30, and thence to Downsville, it was there assigned to Devens' Brigade, Couch's Division, 4th Corps, but served with and was later attached to the 6th Corps. After an expedition to Hancock, Md., and to Cherry Run Ford in October the regiment returned to Downsville marching thence to Berlin, Md., where it crossed the Potomac Nov. 3 with the rest of the Army of the Potomac. Devens' Brigade now became a definite part of Newton's (3d) Division, Franklin's (6th) Corps. Thanksgiving found the 37th at Stafford C. H. Its first battle experience was on the Union left at Fredericksburg, Dec. 11 to 15, 1862. Here Devens' Brigade led the advance in the crossing of the Rappahannock by Franklin's Corps on the 11th, and covered the withdrawal of the corps on the night of the 15th. During the battle on the 13th the 37th was not heavily engaged.

The winter of 1862–63 was spent in camp near White Oak Church about three miles east of Falmouth. In January, 1863, the regiment participated in Burnside's "Mud March," after which it returned to its former camp.

On May 3, 1863, the 37th, now a part of Browne's Brigade, Newton's Division, participated in the capture of Marye's Heights at Fredericksburg, and later the same day and on the following day was in action with the 6th Corps near Salem Church, in these two engagements losing 27 men wounded, two fatally.

As a part of Eustis' (2d) Brigade, Wheaton's (3d) Division it participated in the forced march of the 6th Corps from Manchester to Gettysburg on the night of the first and morning of the second day of July, 1863, covering 35 miles in less than 18 hours and arriving on the field on the afternoon of the 2d just at the close of the fighting on the Union left. On the 3d the regiment suffered severely from shell fire while being shifted from one point to another in the rear of the line.

Early in August the 37th was sent to New York City to assist in the enforcement of the draft. In October it rejoined the Army of the Potomac near Chantilly, Va., and on Nov. 7 was in the supporting line at the capture of Rappahannock Station. During the closing days of November it participated in the Mine Run Campaign, then went into winter quarters near Brandy Station.

Early on the morning of May 4, 1864, the regiment broke camp at Brandy Station and started for the Wilderness. It now formed a part of Eustis' (4th) Brigade of Getty's (2d) Division, Sedgwick's (6th) Corps. Near midday May 5 Getty's Division was hurried to the junction of the Brock and Plank roads arriving just in time to save that important point from falling into the hands of the advancing Confederates. On the following day the 37th was very heavily engaged on the right of the Plank road losing 34 men killed outright and over 100 wounded, about 20 of these mortally.

At Spottsylvania on the 8th, 10th, 12th, and 18th of May the regiment was engaged, having an especially severe experience on the 12th when it assisted in supporting Hancock's assault near the Bloody Angle. During this period the 37th lost 32 men killed or mortally injured together with about twice as many surviving wounded. Here Col. Edwards commanded the 4th Brigade and Lt. Col. Montague the regiment.

The regiment was present at the operations on the North Anna River, May 23 to 25, but suffered no loss. During the fighting near Cold Harbor, June 1 to 12, the 37th lost 6 killed and 23 wounded, several fatally. Lt. Col. Montague having been disabled at Spottsylvania May 12, Lt. Col. Harlow of the 7th Mass. Regt. commanded the 37th until the close of the Cold Harbor operations.

On June 15 the regiment received 76 recruits from the 7th Regiment and that night crossed the James, arriving on the 17th in sight of the spires of Petersburg. Here it remained until July 9, suffering frequent losses. It then accompanied the 6th Corps to Washington to assist in driving back the Confederates under Gen. Early who was threatening the city. It now formed a part of Edwards' (3d) Brigade, Russell's (1st) Division, General Wright now commanding the corps, General Sedgwick having been killed at Spottsylvania. On Sept. 14, the regiment was armed with Spencer, seven shot repeating rifles.

After pursuing Early as far as Snicker's Ferry on the Shenandoah, the 6th Corps returned toward Washington, only to be again sent to the Valley of the Shenandoah by way of Harper's Ferry and assigned to the command of Gen. Philip H. Sheridan. Under his command the 37th was engaged in the operations of the late summer and fall, participating in the battle of Charles Town, Aug. 21, and that of Winchester, Sept. 19, losing in these two engagements a total of 20 killed and 95 wounded, several of the latter mortally.

About Dec. 15, 1864, the 37th returned to the Petersburg lines and was stationed near Fort Wadsworth on the Weldon Railroad. It skirmished at Hatcher's Run, Feb. 5, 1865, made an advance near Fort Fisher, March 25, and participated in the general assault on the Petersburg lines, April 2. It entered Petersburg next morning, but rejoined the 6th Corps about noon and started in pursuit of General Lee's army. Since March 25, Captain Archibald Hopkins had commanded the regiment.

At Sailor's Creek, April 6, it assisted in the defeat and dispersion of Ewell's Corps and the capture of Generals Ewell, Kershaw, and Custis Lee. Here 9 members of the 37th were killed and 31 wounded, several mortally. Captain Hopkins received the brevet of major for his services at Petersburg, and that of lieutenant colonel for his conduct at Sailor's Creek.

Continuing the pursuit to the vicinity of Appomattox C. H., after the surrender of Lee's army the regiment was ordered to Burkeville, thence to Danville, and again back to Wilson's Station on the Southside Railroad. Returning to Washington, it participated in the Grand Review, May 24, and four weeks later was mustered out of the service, its recruits and re-enlisted men having been transferred to the 20th Regiment. Returning to Massachusetts, on the 2d of July the regiment was assembled for the last time at Readville where its members were paid off and discharged.
